Issue 11: January 2026

First Edition of 2026!

Welcome to our January edition of the Ashington Post 2025-2026! January was another busy month at Ashington including a real focus on celebrating student success. We have been sharing lots of sports successes both in and outside of the school and students have been working hard practising for the latest school production!

Celebration Station

The Celebration Station has been a huge success since the new year! Well done to everyone for your fantastic efforts with Culture Vultures, and congratulations to Lucy F, who was the winner of the recent RE competition!

Culture Vultures

Our Culture Vultures initiative had another impressive turn out over the Christmas period. Students were celebrated for their wonderful pieces of creative work. Their passion and dedication really showed through in the work they produced. Well done!

The Library has re-opened!

Our new and improved library has officially opened this month. The library, located in the Hub, now stocks over 1500 non-fiction books as well as short reads, graphic novels, non-fiction and reference books, suitable for Key Stages 3, 4 and 5.

Every pupil is a member of the library where they can browse, reserve and borrow books. A member of staff will be available each breaktime to support students, so pop along and discover what your next read will be.

Arts Award!

A massive well done to all the incredible students who have achieved their Arts Award! Students have continued to show creativity, commitment, to the Arts.

Frozen Jr rehearsals

Students have been working incredibly hard preparing their final few rehearsals for Frozen, we are so excited about our approaching Frozen Jr production! We can't wait to see you there; have you got your tickets yet?

WEIRD Trip!

Some of our GCSE Music and drama students as well as members of our Frozen Jr cast were lucky to secure exclusive free tickets to see the world premier of a new musical “WEIRD” at Newcastle, Theatre Royal.

The show was an electrifying pop-powered musical that reimagines Shakespeare’s Macbeth through the eyes of the three witches, known as “The Weird Sisters”.

Students and staff enjoyed the unforgettable soundtrack, bursting with pop anthems, as well as the stunning set, beautiful costumes and spellbinding special effects!

Maths Quiz at Newcastle

Our students had an incredible evening on their Maths problem-solving trip to Newcastle University, and they absolutely rose to the challenge!

They got fully stuck into every task they were set, even the tough Grade 9 GCSE-style problems. One of our teams even secured an impressive 3rd place against some seriously strong competition!

Both teams were confident, willing to volunteer answers, and showed real enthusiasm! Well done everyone!
